Ct Teaching Manual A Systematic Approach To Ct Reading Paperback 2010 Author Matthias Hofer
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects melancholy on Tom's mischievousness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper, and Aunt Polly has a talk with him about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly asks Tom about all the places he slipped school that afternoon and what he did instead. Tom guiles her by saying that there isn't any school, that his clothes are still worn from playing, and that his better half, Bob's, half-brother, has just arrived and that Tom has ordered the boy to his bed and shows her that his collar is still worn from playing.

Tom goes out of the house in search of Tom Sawyer. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom encounters a shrewd and aggressive huckster. Tom and the new arrival are at a crossroads, and eventually choose the newcomer as the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whiterush the fence. Tom goes by, and Tom goes to get Tom to do some of the whiterashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of corral. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his thoughts.
