The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sorrowfully on Tom’s naughtiness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper, dirty and ragged. He has just been skipping school that afternoon and went instead to the river, where he spent the day fishing and white-washing. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom and the new arrival catch sight of each other, Tom’s heart jumps, and the new arrival catches sight of Tom and eventually choses the newcomer as the only house.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitenew the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “wheat cookie,” a kind of oatmeal. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom cries out dramatically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time, and Aunt Polly scolds him for being late. She tells him that he’ll never learn about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly mentions that Tom has been skipping school that afternoon and goes on to tell him how her heart aches for him that he’s still away from school. Tom’s half-brother, Sid, enters the room, and Sid’s mischief gets him into trouble. Tom has warned his friend Huckleberry Finn not to do anything, but Finn
