Unix And Perl To The Rescue A Field Guide For The Life Sciences And Other Data Rich Pursuits
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s misdeeds and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, his hair disheveled and dirty, his face smeared with jam. Aunt Polly tells him he will have to be skipped school that afternoon and eat dinner in his room. He sulked and, when Aunt Polly left the room, Tom drew his chair to the window and squinted the better to see what was going on. Then he put his head out of the window and whistled. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom notices the new arrival of a boatman and eventually chases the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Sam passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of mule. Sam almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his labor.
