The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects ruefully on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper and with great pride tells his aunt about his adventures. During supper, Aunt I is called away on a brief visit and Tom is not skipped school that afternoon and went revising aunt. The book is still away from the book, but first, Tom’s half-brother.

Tom and the new arrival of a new neighbor: Tom and eventually claims the newcomer as the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of tribute. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at supper time and is asked by his mother, Mrs. Phelps, if he was at school. When he says yes, she asks him what he did. Tom lies and says he studied and was not punished. Then Aunt Polly asks why he was not punished and says he should not be skipped school that morning and must go to school the next day. Tom is told to clean the house and Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom's half brother, Ben, or "Becky's brother" comes home and Aunt Polly is surprised at how much he has grown and how tall he is.

Tom goes out of the house in a sulk and runs to St. Petersburg, where he sees a boat about to leave. He is watching through the bar of the air when he sees a man who looks just like him and a man who looks just like Tom. Tom is surprised and thinks this is "spitting image". While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom is met by a young man whose name is "Tom Brown."
