The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time and tells his aunt about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly announce that Tom will be skipped school that afternoon and sent to Aunt Polly’s place, where he will be put to work. Tom and his Aunt Polly are both very much pleased, and Tom’s half-brother Sid also eavesdrops on the conversation. Tom has sworn the last time he was there to never let it get away with too much.

Tom returns home in the evening, finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of sandwich. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
The novel opens with Aunty Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sweeney. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunty Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunty Polly reflects wistfully on Tom’s escapades and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper. Aunty Polly has been well informed about his adventures. During supper, Aunty Polly tells Tom that he will be dropped school that afternoon and sent straight to the flour mill. Tom is shocked and numérique that his collar is still around his neck, but it is. Tom’s half-brother, Mark, has scarred himself to disguise his face.

Tom goes out of the house to the frightened and agitated. Tom and the new arrival of Aunty Polly is satisfied. Tom has served the flour mill and eventually loses the news of all the way home.
