The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects wistfully on Tom’s escapades and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. He tells his mother about his adventures. During supper, Aunt Polly tells him that he will be skipped school that afternoon and must work in the garden. He refuses, and Aunt Polly threatens him with the wash-house. He agrees reluctantly.

The next morning, Aunt Polly orders Tom to whitewash the fence. Tom tries to avoid working, but Aunt Polly is determined to teach him a lesson. Tom looks for ways to escape his task, but Aunt Polly is always watching. Tom’s friends see him working and start to tease him, but Tom remains resolute.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of miracle. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sourly on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. He has been slapping apples all day and has only been skipped school that afternoon and once on Monday. He is hungry and does not that his father is still away from home but flat, Tom’s half-brother, has absconded and is not back. Tom has sworn the boy himself to dispose his father. Tom goes out of the house to get a drink of water, and while wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, he is accosted by a man and is eventually chased the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Sam passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of whistle. Sam almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his task.
