Neales Disorders Of The Foot Diagnosis And Management 6e
Neales Disorders Of The Foot Series
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the brace. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, and Aunt Polly tells him about his adve-tures. During supper, Aunt Polly gives Tom a lecture about being kicked out of school that afternoon and what consequences he will face. Tom's head droops, and he knows he must face the music. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but Tom's head is bowed, and she can see that his collar is still very fine.

Tom goes out of the house into the night. Tom is determined to make his own way and eventually prove his worth to Aunt Polly. He thinks about how he will make his own fortune and eventually show Aunt Polly that he is worth more than she thinks.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of money. Aunt Polly agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and closes him off, leaving Tom alone with his toil.

Tom comes home at supper. His face is red and has a few welts on it. He tells the family about his adventures during the day. He has been skipped school that afternoon and went rowing with the other boys. His clothes are still wet from the water, but his father, Tom’s half-brother, is not interested. Tom has sworn to Aunt Polly that he will not do it again.

Tom goes out of the house in the evening. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, he sees a man who Lee the new arrival is Tom’s classmate, Huckleberry Finn. Tom and the new arrival exchange greeting and eventually chases the newcomers all the way home.
